COURSE CONTENT

Student Learning Outcomes:

At the conclusion of this course, the student should be able to:

1. Apply critical thinking skills to respond to and to analyze unadapted selections of nonfiction.
2. Apply the writing process to produce extended essays that demonstrate level-appropriate organization and content, critical thinking, vocabulary, fluency, and grammatical accuracy.
3. Comprehend advanced reading passages by identifying organizational strategies, paraphrasing, summarizing, and synthesizing.
4. Access and evaluate information on the Internet and library databases and use appropriate and reliable source material to support writing, including using correct MLA format to cite sources.
5. Utilize metacognitive thinking skills in learning and studying processes.

Objectives:

At the conclusion of this course, the student should be able to:

Reading

1. Employ level-appropriate critical reading skills such as making inferences, identifying point of view, and recognizing author bias.
2. Identify main ideas, supporting details, and organizational patterns.
3. Summarize and paraphrase unadapted selections of nonfiction.
4. Use contextual clues, high-frequency affixes and roots, and the dictionary to determine the meaning, pronunciation, and connotation of new vocabulary.

Writing

1. Employ a multi-draft writing process to craft, edit, and revise extended essays with an introduction, a detailed thesis statement, well-developed supporting paragraphs, and a clear conclusion.
2. Recognize various audiences and purposes of writing to produce different genres of academic writing, including descriptive/narrative and expository modes.
3. Apply level-appropriate critical thinking skills to writing, editing, and revising.
4. Complete timed essays in response to an unadapted academic reading passage.
5. Write and edit sentences demonstrating level-appropriate knowledge of clause structure, academic vocabulary, fluency, and grammatical accuracy.
6. Write an expository essay that effectively incorporates source materials, documented in MLA style.

Information Competency and Research

1. Utilize the Internet, library, and online databases for research.
2. Evaluate source material for reliability and validity.
3. Use online language development resources.
4. Avoid plagiarism and take responsibility for originality of their written work through use of online tools such as Turnitin.
