COURSE CONTENT

Outcomes and Objectives:

Upon completion of the course, students will be able to:

1. Relate lecture materials, audio-visual presentations and textual readings into a coherent base for study of history.
2. Recognize that history is not dogma; that it is a process of interaction between factual sources and those who interpret them.
3. Demonstrate critical thinking and analytical skills in a series of objective tests, written examinations, and critical papers that probe Latin America's past.
4. Apply historical learning to in-class discussions of past controversies and contemporary concerns.
5. Integrate geographic knowledge with historical study--the human story moves through both space and time.
6. Identify and employ atypical and non-traditional source materials such as fiction, music, cinema and sport to study Latin American popular culture.
7. Examine the contributions of women, racial and ethnic minorities, and other underrepresented groups to the formulation of Latin American ideals and institutions.
8. Question their own values and popular myths, as well as conventional historical analysis.
9. Synthesize the ideas of past and current historians and (from this synthesis) develop their own means of addressing fundamental

- historical questions of causation and consequence.
10. Debate the claim that the heritage and institutions of the Latin American countries are to some degree unique and explore the causal rationale that underwrites this alleged uniqueness.
 11. Recognize that informational and interpretive knowledge of the Western Hemisphere nation's history can be programatically employed in everyday life as an individual and as a citizen.
