

This is not the class syllabus, it is a brief introduction...

I see you are interested in taking the Fire 74 online course (January 17, 2017 – May 26, 2017). If you decide to go forward, welcome to the class.

The textbook you will need is IFSTA Fire Detection and Suppression Systems, Fourth Edition. It is available at the SRJC Bookstore, as reference in the SRJC Library and online for purchase.

There will be one field trip, hopefully to Skywalker Ranch. If you cannot make it there will be an alternate written assignment available...don't miss it if we are able to schedule it.

Your class Canvas website <https://santarosajc.instructure.com/courses/11574> will be available on January 10th, 2017 to those of you that are registered in the class. BOOKMARK THE CLASS WEBSITE URL.

You can reach Section information pages (linked from the student portal and the schedule of classes), and there is also information on the SRJC DE website .

The first night of class is January, 17, 2017. This will be an online live conference at 7:00 pm (1900 hours). You will receive email about the conference and you can go into your canvas website, conferences module and join when it begins.

It takes discipline to participate in an online class but it can be a great experience for many of you.

Welcome! Here's to a great semester...

Bradley Mark, Fire 74 Instructor
